- Communication boards help people communicate, interact, and feel included.
- Everyone is encouraged to use the board to support shared play and interaction.
- You can find more communication boards in parks across Kent.
- Modelling is key. Show how to use the board by pointing to symbols as you speak.
- The person using the board may point to a symbol to show what they want.
- If pointing is difficult, slowly point to symbols and wait for a yes or no response.
